

Call for Papers	Inaugural Issue July 2013
Languages/ Sprachen	Bilingual/ zweisprachig: English & Deutsch
General orientation/ Ausrichtung	The Journal of Migration & Integration Studies (JMIS) welcomes contributions of theoretical and empirical research on migration and its causes, effects and consequences (here for example with special focus on problems of integrating immigrants into the host society). Specifically, JMIS invites contributions in migration and integration studies, which highlight global, international and/or local aspects of migration (emigration and immigration), in all its varieties. Contributions from differing disciplines such as sociology, economics, business studies or history, which all attend migration and integration studies in their own manner, are invited. The journal generally aims to provide a platform for all academics who are engaged in theoretical and empirical work in migration & integration studies within all disciplines.
Range of themes/ Themenbereiche	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • "Migration in its general local and global consequences", • "Cultural, religious & ethnic diversity as migration consequences", • "Global and international migration", • "Problems of immigrant integration", • "Migration within and to the European Union", • "South-South migration", • "Irregular and illegal migration", • "Migration and gender", • "Migration & remittances" • "Ethnic entrepreneurship", • "Ethnic diversity within Human resource management (HRM)", • "Migration and the labour market".
Deadlines	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Revised call for papers issued: October 1st, 2012 (first call: April 1st, 2012) • Submission of article proposals (3-5 pages): December 15th, 2012; • Editorial decision on subsequent invitations for full article submission: January 15th, 2013; • Submission of full papers/ articles: March 15th, 2013; • Peer review, acceptance & ev. revisional recommendations: April 30th, 2013; • Final or revised papers submitted: May 31th, 2013; • Anticipated publication of the first online-issue: July 15th, 2013.
Publisher/ Verlag	JMIS is published by IMP (International Migration Press), publishing channel of the International Association for Migration Studies (IAMS), AUT/ Austria).
Guidelines	Further guidelines on journal article submissions can be found at: http://jmis.migrationstudies.at (section: submitting an article)
Contact	For further questions contact the editorial office: Dr. Ingo Moerth, E-mail: jmis@migrationstudies.at
Impressum	International Association for Migration Studies, c/o Gierkeweg 1, A-4040 Linz/D., Austria E-mail: iams@migrationstudies.at